

Commissioner Jeremy Clark was first appointed to the City of Davenport Commission in 2020. In 2021, he ran unopposed for seat 2. He currently serves as the Vice Mayor of Davenport. He is also currently serving on various boards and committees through Polk County and The Florida League of Cities including, but not limited to: Polk Transportation Planning Organization, Transportation Disadvantage Local Coordinating Board (Chairperson), Florida League of Cities - Legislative Policy Committee - Land Use and Economic Development.

Jeremy moved to Davenport, Florida in 2016, with his family, to become the Senior Pastor of The Gate Church. He is recognized as a community leader through his dedication and willingness to serve his city. Some of the ways that he is currently serving the city is through the weekly feeding of students through the Full Ministries Backpack program, which also yearly provides backpacks and school supplies to hundreds of students. We also provide hundreds of Thanksgiving meals to families in the Davenport area.

Jeremy and his wife have been married for 27 years and have 3 sons and 1 granddaughter. His personal values in life are to put God first, then his marriage, then family. Priority is everything!
